"There is a reason you have two hands, one to receive and one to give"

I drove past this sign frequently this fall and it made me think about how much I receive vs. how much I give. I worried that I received way more than I gave!!! It is easy to be overwhelmed this time of year especially. There is much to be done to get ready for the holidays. Add to that the fact that every day it seems there are 5 or 6 requests for financial support in our mail and each one is support for a really good cause. How do we chose where to invest our resources both financial and in terms of volunteer time?? Sometimes it is just easier to ignore it all!!!

BUT

There is a reason you have two hands, one to receive and one to give remains an eternal truth. I am grateful that you chose to give today to support the food pantries in West Allis. No one can do it all but everyone can do something is also an eternal truth. With your help by supporting this food drive, we can do something for the folks in West Allis who don't have the advantages that you and I have.

It is my prayer that you and yours will enjoy a holiday season that is bright!! Thank you for caring.
